Quantum of the Seas

Custom Carpets for 4.180 Pairs of Feet Every Day

Cruising is the fastest growing choice of holiday, and has in recent years not only gained on popularity but has also become available to a much wider group of people. Therefore, the new ships being built are larger and more spectacular than ever before. And the same goes for the carpets onboard.

Quantum of the Seas isn't just changing cruising, it's changing how today's traveller vacations, says Richard D. Fain, chairman and CEO at Royal Caribbean Cruises Ltd. in a press release. "It's not just how you travel, it's the experience from start to finish. With Quantum we are empowering our guests to customize every aspect of their journey, providing them with an unprecedented level of freedom and flexibility."

"This has been a major project for Dansk Wilton and we are proud to have been onboard with Royal Caribbean as supplier of custom designed ColorTec carpets for suites, and cabins for passengers and crew. The total amount of rooms is 2.754" - Thomas Rasmussen, Export Manager at Dansk Wilton

Quantum of the Seas is the first of three Quantum class ships and span 16 guest decks, feature 2.090 staterooms and carry 4.180 guests at double occupancy as well as 1.500 crewmembers. It is not easy to imagine just how much work has been put into delivering a custom carpet solution for a vessel this size.
